LINING FOR BATTLE.

THE GREAT BIMETALLIC CON-FERENCE AT WASHINGTON.

Enthusiastic and Fruitful Gathering of Earnest Americans - Call for the National Convention at St. Louis on July 26- Coalition the Watchword.

On the 22d and 23d of the present month a conference of bimetallists was held at Washington. It was a splendid gathering of earnest, determined men. and the proceedings were of the broadest national significance.

The conference was held in response to the following invitation: Dear Sir:-In pursuance of a resolution of the executive committee of the American Bimetallic League, adopted November 20, 1895, a copy of which is herewith enclosed, a conference of well known and active advocates of the cause of independent bimetallism in the United States who are prepared now to place the cause above party and to join in an independent movement to secure the restoration of the constitutional standard of gold and silver by the free coinage of both metals at the existing ratio, will be held at the Sun building, Washington, D. C., January 22, 1896. The object of the conference is to deliberate on the situation at that time and to arrange for holding a national convention to nominate candidates for president and vice president, and for conducting a national campaign on the above issue. Recent ference more important than when the inclosed resolution was passed. You are respectfully invited to attend this conference and participate in its deliberations. Very truly yours,

A. J. WARNER. Pres. American Bimetallic League. H. G. MILLER,

Chr'n. National Silver Committee. R. C. CHAMBERS.

Pres. National Bimetallic Union. J. M. DEVINE.

Acting Sec. Am. Bimetallic League. About 200 invitations were sent out, and more than 100 of those invited were present, while nearly all of the others sent cordial and sympathetic letters. Gen. A. J. Warner presided.

The proceedings were harmonious throughout. There was a little good natured sparring between delegates of different political parties, but it merely emphasized their earnestness in the common cause. Many of the speeches with which the proceedings were interspersed were of a high order of ability, dignified in tone as befitted the momentous character of the question under consideration.

Nor was the conference a mere whirlwind of oratory. It was assembled for practical work, and work it did.

The committee on resolutions and address consisted of the following named

Senator John P. Jones, chairman; Josimer, of Pennsylvania; Hon. J. L. Me- ored money of the constitution-gold Laurin, of South Carolina, and H. The committee, however, with the exception of Mr. Lorimer, were unanimously agreed that such a course would complicate the try; and to the end further that silver situation, and that the conference standard countries may be deprived of should deal with the monetary issue

Accordingly, the following declaration of principles was presented to the conference.

The Resolutions.

The paramount issue at this time in the United States is Indisputably the money question. It is between the gold standard, gold bonds and bank currency, on the one side, and the bimetallic standard, no bonds, and government currency, on the other.

On this issue we declare ourselves to be in favor of a distinctively American financial system. We are unalterably opposed to the single gold standard, and demand the immediate return to: the constitutional standard of gold silver, by the restoration by the ernment, independently of any power, of the unrestricted coi both gold and silver into s money, at the ratio of 16 to 1, at terms of exact equality, as they prior to 1873; the silver coin full legal tender, equally with a all debts and dues, public and pr

We hold that the power to con regulate a paper currency is in ble from the power to coin mor hence that all currency intende culate as money should be Issi its volume controlled, by the government only, and should

We are unalterably opposed issue by the United States of i bearing bonds in time of pea we denounce as a blunder wor a crime the present treasury concurred in by a republican of plunging the country in d hundreds of millions in the tempt to maintain the gold s by borrowing gold; and we dem payment of all coin obligations United States, as provided by laws, in either gold or silver the option of the government, at the option of the creditor. Whereas, The demonetization ver in 1873 enormously increase demand for gold, enhancing i chasing power and lowering al measured by that standard;

Whereas, Since that unjust ar fensible act, the prices of A products have fallen upon an nearly fire per cent, merryin, with their money bely the except in peculiarly favored localities;

Whereas, Such fall of prices has de stroyed the profits of legitimate industry, injuring the producer for the benefit of the non-producer, increasing the burden of the debtor, and swelling the gains of the creditor, paralyzing the productive energies of the Amer- blood purifier prominently in the public ican people, relegating to idleness vast numbers of willing workers, sending the shadows of despair into the home of the honest toiler, filling the land with tramps and paupers and building your blood and toning and invigorating up colossal fortunes at the money cen- your whole system. ters; and

Whereas, In the effort to maintain the gold standard the country has, within the last eighteen months, in a time of profound peace and plenty, been loaded down with $162,000,000 of additional interest-bearing debt under such circumstances as to allow a syndicate of native and foreign bankers to realize a net profit of $10,000,000 on a single deal; and

Whereas Another call is now pending for a further gold loan of $100,000,-000, which, but for an outburst of popular indignation, would also have been negotiated in the same secret manner and through the same syndicate; and

Whereas, It stands confessed that the gold standard can only be upheld by so depleting our paper currency as to force the prices of our products below the European and even below the Asiatic level, in order that we may sell in foreign markets, thus aggravating the very evils of which our people so bitterly complain, degrading American labor and striking at the founevents, it is believed, make such a con- dations of our civilization itself; and

> Whereas, The advocates of the gold standard persistently claim that the real cause of our distress is over production-that we have produced so much that it has made us poor, which implies that the true remedy is to close the factory, abandon the farm and throw a multitude of people out of emabsolutely without hope for the future; and

> Whereas. The difference of exchange gold standard countries is equivalent to a bounty equal to the difference between the value of gold and silver, in favor of the products of silver standard countries exported to gold standard countries, and a corresponding tariff against the products of gold standard countries exported to silver using countries; and

Whereas, The cost of production otherwise in the old world, and particularly in China and Japan, is far less than the cost at which similar products can be produced or manufactured in this country by American labor without reducing our farmers, miners, mechanics, manufacturers and other industrial workers on the level of Chinese coolies;

Therefore, Be it resolved, That over and above all other questions of policy, we are in favor of restoring to the peoeph Sheldon, of Connecticut; J. H. Lor- ple of the United States the time honand Lincoln, to the end that the Ameriest standard and not in a standard that is appreciated one hundred per cent above all the great staples of our coun- saved me."-New York Sun. the unjust advantage they now enjoy in the difference in exchange between gold and silver-an advantage which tariff legislation alone cannot overcome.

We therefore confidently appeal to the people of the United States to leave in abeyance for the moment all other questions however important and even momentous they may appear, to sunder if need be, all former party ties and affiriations, and unite in one supreme effort to free themselves and their children from the domination of the money power-a power more destructive than any which has ever been fastened upon the civilized men of any race in any And upon the consummation of their desires and efforts we invoke the gracious favor of Divine Providence.

Known Reading Clerk His Place. One of the interesting incidents at the opening session of a new congress is the selection of the reading clerk of the house. The reading clerk is appointed by the clerk of the house, but candidates for the place must take part in a competitive "speaking contest" before the house. John A. Roeve, who was reading clerk during Harrison's administration, was a politician from Cairo, Ills., and one of the best known characters in Washington at the time. Reeve tells this

'I didn't suppose I had any show for the place when it came to the test," said "for most of the candidates were college men, and some were elecutionists, while the culy elecution I had ever practiced was calling bogs in southern Illinois, though I had been able to get up in a political meeting and make the fellows on the back seat hear me; so I thought I would go into this contest anyhow and do my best in my own way. But you ought to have heard those elocutionists. The way they rolled their r's and hissed their s's and said 'ah' and '1-1' was a caution! Some of them didn't talk like human beings and others had voices so rich and melodious you couldn't hear them 40 feet away.

"By the time my turn came I had ployment-a doctrine that leaves us sized up the hall and knew just about where so throw my voice, and I determined to make myself heard if I did nothing else. Each candidate had rebetween silver standard countries and ceived a copy of a house bill to read. I noticed that the other fellows started out this way, 'Uh bill,' and so on. Now 'uh' is a sound that won't carry, and you can't attract the attention of the house by grunting 'Uh!' So when I started I sang out in a loud, clear voice that took them off their feet, 'A-a-a-a-a bill!'-long 'a.' They weren't used to that, and wondered what had broken loose, but it seemed to catch them. I saw I was on the right track, so I went on singing her out clear as a bell, and when I got warmed up I felt as good as I ever did in the hottest speech of a campaign.

"The thing they gave me to read was a terror. It had words in it as long as a dictionary, but I hurried up and slid through them and was doing pretty well when I looked down the page and saw a lot of Spanish proper names. Now, I didn't know Spanish from Apache, but I was going about 100 words a minute. so without stopping I gave them two verses of a little German poem I had living received a tailor's bill. Florida Orange Crop.

A careful estimate of the Florida orange erop is 100,000 boxes, which is quite a drop from the 5,000,000 boxes of the season of 1893-4. But the new growth of trees is doing exceedingly well, and ought to be producing again within three years. It is predicted that five years hence the crop will be as large as ever .- St. Louis Globe-Demograt

On Feb. 1, in Latitude (i) degrees, longitude 472 degrees 31 minutes, we ran into open water again, having this time spent only as days in the tee pack. On the 17th the nature appeared, strons ger than I ever saw it in the north. It rose from the southwest, stretching in a bread sir, in up toward the zenith and down again toward the eastern horizen. The phenomenon this time had quite a different appearance from what we saw in Cot, 20. It now presented long shimms curtains rising and falling in wonderful shapes and shades, sometimes see mangly close down to our mastheads. The Irish Rain.

I must allow that it sometimes rains in Ireland, but Irish rain is not quite like other rain. It is, as a rule, softer than rain elsewhere, and, if the truth must be told, I like rain, so long as one has not to say, "For the rain it raineth every day." Irish weather is not so much capricious as coquettish. It likes to plague you, if but to prepare you to enjoy the more its sunny, melting mood.

And the runnels leap and laugh, and the pastures and very stone walls glisten; the larks carol on their celestial journey; there is a pungent, healthy smell of drying peat; the mountains are all dimpled with the joy of life and sunshine; the lake lies perfeetly still, content to reflect the overhanging face of heaven, and just won't your henor buy the stoutest pair of homemade hose from a barefooted, bareheaded daughter of dethroned kines, with eyes blue develops and a voce that would class the commost charle by 102 If an ines a tem s 1000 10 to less disks

Barber's Peculiarities.

"Did you ever know," said a Ninth street burber, "that certain men who come into this shop to be shaved exert a queer hypnotic influence over one or more of the barbers? It's a fact. Now, there's a man over there at the next chair but one. He doesn't look like a nervous fellow, does he? No! Well, he isn't nervous as a rule, but there's a certain man about town whose very appearance in the doorway sets that man shivering like a man in a fit. He could no more shave that particular customer than fly. Amother man who used to work in this shop a couple of years ago was similarly affected, but to a greater degree, by a prominent business man, a Mr. B-- Whenever Mr. B-- came into the shop, the barber would grow deathly pale and quiver spasmodically. It frequently compelled him to knock off work for a whole day, and finally the boss had to discharge him. Fact! Here's another funny thing. Did you ever know that the average barber hates nothing so much as to have to shave a man's upper lip? I don't know why it is, but I feel that way myself. I'd rather lose a day's pay than shave off a man's mustache, and when a smooth faced man comes into this shop you ought to see the way each of us 'soldiers' and 'monkeys' around, so as to keep him from getting in our chairs. "-Philadelphia Record.

His Sweetheart and His Tailor.

A vonng man whose income is by no means sufficient to keep up his style of possessor of a comfortable bank account. with the remark written on it that it membe the bill, he was engaged in writing a note to his fiancee and in some way had his attention called away as soon as it was finished. He returned to his desk, placed the tailor's bill instead of the note in an envelope and directed it on his typewriter, which fact was all that saved him. When he called, she was very indignant, but he was quick witted and began berating the tailor for sending her an account which he disputed in order to prejudice her against him out of spite because the young man would not pay an unjust claim. The next morning the lover told the tailor all about the affair, paid the bill, and the maker of clothes helped him out by sending the girl an apology, by which kindness he obtained an order for two suits of clothes. - Washington Post.
